

First established in 2012, at an apex of mineral production in the territory, the Yukon Producers' Group has since flourished, reflecting a renewed global economic interest in precious and base metals.

Today, the group has expanded to include several advanced projects and key service suppliers and contractors; which so invaluable attend our industry.

Creating opportunities and addressing challenges that surround operational viability, sustainability and competitiveness unites the Yukon Producers' Group.

Together, the members work to advance the common interests of our territory's mineral exploration and development industry to help ensure mutually beneficial synergies and resulting benefits for Yukon communities and residents.

Membership in the Yukon Producers' Group is by invitation and includes:

- Companies with producing mine operations; companies with late stage mine projects in the mine development stage; companies with advanced resource projects currently in the Yukon's permitting process; or companies in the advanced exploration phase.
- Companies, which serve and supply the Yukon's advanced projects with transportation, engineering, construction, logistics and other professional services.

Two Project Managers report to the group chair, jointly supporting and coordinating the work of the Yukon Producers' Group and leading projects and initiatives on behalf of the members.
